

Watch carefully for title changes, particularly if your branch files unbound journals by call number. The call number may be the same, but even minor changes in the wording of the title may mean that separate bibliographic records have been set up. Each title should be checked in and bound on the appropriate record.

You may want to refer to:

- the Serials Check-in record: to see which record contains the unbound holdings for the items you have in hand
- the catalogue record: to find the range of holdings for a particular title
